The 6 types of plagiarism

1. quoting verbatim another person's work without acknowledging the source
2. paraphrasing another person's work by changing some of the words, or the order of the words, without acknowledging the source
3. using ideas without reference to the person who had the ideas in the first place
4. cutting and pasting from the internet without acknowledging
5. submitting someone else's work without identifying clearly who did the work
6. colluding with a classmate on a piece of work, when that work is not a permitted joint or team project